

GET THE DOWNLOAD ON YOUR BLOOD GLUCOSE LEVELS AT CINCOTTA CHEMIST

People with diabetes will find it easier to see how they are tracking with their blood glucose levels (BGLs) by visiting Cincotta Chemist and asking about the new downloading service now available in-store using the diabetes management program Accu-Chek® Compass.

Accu-Chek Compass is used to record and track BGLs so people with diabetes can monitor and understand their diabetes results quickly and easily.

Used in conjunction with the Accu-Chek range of blood glucose meters, people visiting Cincotta Chemist can upload the results from their meter to the Accu-Chek Compass program.

The program then converts BGLs into easy to read charts and graphs which can be printed and discussed with the pharmacist, or emailed directly to other healthcare professionals to assist in determining the best management options.

This new downloading service offers a range of benefits to people with diabetes, according to Mr Simon Venville, Retail Manager, Diabetes Care, Roche Diagnostics Australia, the manufacturers of Accu-Chek

Compass and the Accu-Chek range of meters.

"Diabetes can be a challenging disease to live with. Regular blood glucose testing is a mainstay of disease management for people with diabetes and helps to prevent serious long-term complications associated with the disease such as heart attack, eye and kidney damage, and limb amputation.

The downloading service provides a simple way for people with diabetes to collect and analyse information relating to BGLs, which can then be shared with their healthcare professionals," concluded Mr Venville.

Cincotta Chemist is delighted to offer this service to customers, according to Mario Capanna, Pharmacist at Cincotta Chemist.

"We encourage all our customers with diabetes to visit us and learn more about the downloading service. Better still, bring along your Accu-Chek meter and try this free service for yourself," said Mario.
